Telangana HC reserves verdict on Amrapali's cadre allocation

Hyderabad, Oct 13: The Telangana High Court has reserved its verdict on a petition filed by IAS officer Amrapali challenging the Centre's decision on her cadre allocation. The Central Administrative Tribunal (CAT) had set aside the Centre's proceedings allocating Amrapali to the Andhra Pradesh cadre and directed that she be allocated to the Telangana cadre.

The High Court had subsequently stayed the tribunal's order. After the High Court's interim order, Amrapali approached the same court challenging the decision. A division bench heard arguments in the matter and reserved its verdict.

Following the bifurcation of Andhra Pradesh and Telangana, Amrapali was initially allocated to the Andhra Pradesh cadre. The Centre later issued directions to the governments of both states regarding her allocation to the Telangana cadre. Challenging the Centre's orders, Amrapali approached the CAT, which ruled in her favour and directed her allocation to Telangana. The Centre's proceedings allocating her to Andhra Pradesh were set aside, prompting the matter to reach the High Court.

Centre clears LB Nagar elevated corridor

Hyderabad, Oct. 13: The Telangana government has secured the Centre's in-principle support for several key road infrastructure projects aimed at easing traffic congestion, reducing travel time and improving connectivity between rural areas and urban centres across the State. Minister for Roads & Buildings and Cinematography Komatireddy Venkat Reddy, along with Minister Jupally Krishna Rao, MP Mallu Ravi, Government Whip Beerla Ilaiah, officials of the Union Ministry of Road Transport and Highways (MoRTH) and State officials, met Union Minister for Road Transport and Highways Nitin Gadkari in New Delhi on Tuesday to discuss proposals for highways, bridges, elevated corridors and ropeways. Nitin Gadkari responded positively to several proposals, approved some projects and directed officials to take the necessary steps for their implementation.

In a significant development for Hyderabad's eastern corridor, Gadkari approved the proposed elevated corridor between LB Nagar and Hayathnagar to address growing traffic congestion in the rapidly developing area. He also assured the delegation that the tendering process for the expansion of National Highway-65 would be completed in November, with construction scheduled to commence in January 2027. Nitin Gadkari agreed to the proposal to lay the foundation stone for an iconic cable-stayed bridge across the Krishna River on NH-167K, aimed at strengthening road connectivity between Telangana and AP.

The proposed bridge between Somasila and Sangameswar is expected to shorten the distance to Tirupati by around 80 km and reduce travel time by nearly three hours, Komatireddy explained. Responding positively to Komatireddy's proposal for an elevated corridor along the Hyderabad–Srisailam stretch of NH-765, the Union Minister directed officials to prepare a fresh Detailed Project Report (DPR) for the project.

Nitin Gadkari approved the proposal to establish five ropeways in Telangana under the Parvatmala scheme to promote tourism and improve access to major tourist destinations. The projects are expected to make travel more convenient for tourists while creating local employment opportunities and stimulating economic activity in surrounding areas. He also responded positively to the proposal for a Hyderabad–Amaravati greenfield highway, which is expected to strengthen road connectivity between Telangana and Andhra Pradesh. Under the Setu Bandhan scheme, Nitin Gadkari approved the construction of three railway overbridges (ROBs) in Telangana.

The projects are expected to reduce waiting time for motorists at railway level crossings and improve road safety. Komatireddy Venkat Reddy further requested Central assistance under the Central Road and Infrastructure Fund (CRIF) for 34 road projects across Telangana. On the occasion, Nitin Gadkari directed the concerned officials to take the necessary steps on the proposals.

The Minister also sought the upgradation of State highways connecting Pullur, Alampur, Jatrapole, Pentlavelli, Kollapur, Lingala, Achampet, Dindi, Devara konda, Mallepalli and Nalgonda into national highways.

Gadkari responded positively to the proposal. Komatireddy Venkat Reddy invited Nitin Gadkari to attend the Indian Road Congress (IRC), scheduled to be held in Hyderabad from November 19 to 22. The Union Minister responded positively and agreed to attend the event.

Municipal Corporation (GHMC), Malkajgiri Municipal Corporation (MMC) and Cyberabad Municipal Corporation (CMC). During the review, Jaju directed officials to make effective use of available water resources and take all necessary measures to prevent inconvenience to the public, despite the anticipated reduction in reservoir water availability due to the El Niño phenomenon. He said the Hyderabad Core Area primarily depended on Osman Sagar, Himayat Sagar, Manjeera, Krishna and Godavari water sources, which together had around 560 million gallons per day (MGD) available. To meet the city's drinking water requirements, a plan had been drawn up to mobilise an additional 60 MGD, comprising 15 MGD from the Krishna River, 40 MGD through Mission Bhagiratha and 5 MGD from Osman Sagar and Himayat Sagar, he said. Officials informed the meeting that five thousand million cubic feet (TMC) of water was available at Mallannasagar. The pipeline project to transport water from Mallannasagar to Hyderabad was expected to be completed in November, enabling an additional 20 MGD to be made available for the city, they said. The Chief Secretary also directed officials to ensure that sewage treatment plants (STPs) in gated communities and apartment complexes operated at full capacity. farmers. He said the government should have addressed their concerns before issuing the order. Questioning the rationale behind creating a new DISCOM when the government was already struggling to ensure an uninterrupted power supply to farmers, households and industries, Harish Rao said the priority should be to resolve existing power supply problems. "Farmers are already suffering because of power cuts and burnt transformers. Instead of solving these problems, the government is creating another organisation. What benefit will farmers get from this decision?" he asked.

The BRS leader expressed concern that the proposed DISCOM could be used to dilute the government's commitment to providing free electricity to farmers.

He demanded a clear, written assurance that the existing 24-hour free power supply would continue without any reduction. The BRS leader also raised questions about the proposed DISCOM's organisational structure, staffing and financial viability.

According to the figures cited in GO 17, around 30.63 lakh connections are proposed to be transferred to the new organisation.

These include 30,60,861 agricultural connections, 512 lift irrigation schemes, and connections associated with the Hyderabad Metropolitan Water Supply and Sewerage Board (HMWSSB) and Mission Bhagiratha. Harish Rao questioned how such an extensive network could be managed with a workforce of only around 2,000 employees. He also expressed concern over the maintenance of 6,15,651 agricultural transformers and 2.51 lakh circuit kilometres of agricultural low-tension power lines. The BRS leader asked who would be held accountable if staff shortages compromised maintenance and caused further difficulties for farmers.

Govt Rolls Out High-Security Paper for Meeseva Certificates

Hyderabad, Oct 13: In a significant step towards enhancing the security, durability and reliability of government documents, the Telangana government has introduced a new generation of security paper for Meeseva certificates. Specially designed to resist tearing and withstand exposure to water, the new paper was launched by Minister for IT and Industries, D. Sridhar Babu, at Praja Bhavan in Hyderabad on Tuesday. \MLAs Raj Thakur and Vijay Ramana Rao, Electronic Service Delivery (ESD) Commissioner T. Ravi Kiran, officials, printing agencies and representatives of service organisations attended the launch.

The new Meeseva certificate paper incorporates 15 advanced security features designed to prevent the production of counterfeit certificates and unauthorised duplication. Details of these features have been withheld for security reasons. Manufactured using specialised technology, the new paper is designed to be highly resistant to tearing and damage caused by water. It also offers greater resilience against wear and tear arising from routine handling, folding and long-term storage. The enhanced durability will enable citizens to preserve important certificates in good condition for years. Under normal conditions, the improved paper is also expected to reduce the need for lamination, offering greater convenience to citizens while helping protect their documents over the long term. Speaking on the occasion, Minister D. Sridhar Babu said that certificates issued by the government, including birth and death certificates and documents required for educational, employment and other official purposes, play a crucial role in people's lives. "Many government certificates are documents that citizens need to preserve for decades, and sometimes throughout their lifetime. It is the government's responsibility to ensure that these documents remain durable, secure and reliable," the Minister said. Sridhar Babu emphasised that the Telangana government was leveraging modern technology to improve the quality, security and convenience of public services. The introduction of the new security paper would not only enhance the durability of certificates but also strengthen safeguards against forgery and counterfeiting, he said.

NDA Partners Intensify Seat-Sharing Talks in AP

Hectic parleys were on among NDA partners in Andhra Pradesh on Tuesday to finalise seat sharing for the upcoming local body elections. Chief Minister and Telugu Desam Party (TDP) President, N. Chandrababu Naidu, intensified efforts to reach an agreement with his allies Jana Sena and BJP. State BJP President, P.V.N. Madhav met Chandrababu Naidu and discussed the seat sharing among partners in the ruling NDA. This is the second round of talks between the two leaders in as many days. Chandrababu Naidu wants to decide the number of seats to be allotted to Jana Sena before holding further talks with the BJP on the number of seats to be left for the saffron party. Chandrababu Naidu, who is the national president of the TDP, also held talks with TDP state president Palla Srinivasa Rao and minister Nimmala Rama naidu. Later, Srinivasa Rao and Ramanaidu went to Jana Sena office and held talks with Deputy Chief Minister and Jana Sena chief Pawan Kalyan. Minister Nadendla Manohar, Vamsi Krishna Yadav and other Jana Sena leaders were also present. Jana Sena and TDP leaders will be meeting Chief Minister Naidu at his residence on Tuesday night to finalise seat sharing. The meeting is also likely to discuss the candidates for key local body elections. The talks will be crucial as all the three parties will be keen to secure seats in proportion to their strength. The deal is likely to be finalised based on their electoral prospects. Jana Sena and BJP have reportedly submitted to Chandrababu Naidu lists of seats they seek based on their respective strengths. The ruling coalition is keen to finalise seat sharing before the announcement of the poll schedule, which is likely on October 14. Last week, Chandrababu Naidu and Pawan Kalyan discussed seat-sharing among the alliance partners, the constituencies and local bodies to be contested by each party, and the selection of mayoral candidates for key municipal corporations. The two leaders also reportedly discussed the election strategies to be adopted and the need for coordination among the alliance partners. The meeting also focussed on evolving a coordinated strategy to project unity among the alliance partners and secure strong results at all levels in the local body elections.

SC Notice to Centre, ECI on Poll Panel Immunity

The Supreme Court on Tuesday issued notice to the Centre and the Election Commission of India (ECI) on a public interest litigation challenging the blanket immunity granted to the Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) and other Election Commissioners under Section 16 of the Chief Election Commissioner and the other Election Commissioners (Appointment, Conditions of Service and Term of Office) Act, 2023. A bench of Chief Justice of India Surya Kant and Justices Joymalya Bagchi and V. Mohana sought responses from the Union government and the poll panel on a plea filed by the Association for Democratic Reforms (ADR) challenging the provision that grants serving and former CECs and Election Commissioners immunity from legal proceedings for acts, things or words committed, done or spoken in the course of discharging, or purporting to discharge, their official duties. As per the case status available on the apex court's website, the matter is tentatively listed for further hearing on November 2. Section 16 states: "Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, no Court shall entertain or continue any civil or criminal proceedings against any person who is or was a Chief Election Commissioner or an Election Commissioner for any act, thing or word, committed, done or spoken by him when, or in the course of acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty or function." ADR has contended that the provision violates Articles 14 and 19 of the Constitution, arguing that granting such sweeping protection to the constitutional functionaries undermines accountability and places them beyond the ordinary process of law. The plea has questioned the grant of blanket immunity to the CEC and Election Commissioners, contending that the provision could shield alleged arbitrary exercise of power and corruption from judicial scrutiny.

NPCI Delays UPI MDR Rollout; Fintech Stocks Rebound

New Delhi, Oct 13 : The National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI) on Tuesday deferred the implementation of Merchant Discount Rate (MDR) on select Unified Payments Interface (UPI) merchant transactions until after Diwali, providing temporary relief to merchants and consumers during the festive season. In a statement, NPCI said that its UPI and Services Steering Committee had decided to postpone the rollout, keeping the festive season in mind.

The MDR framework was originally scheduled to come into effect from October 15. "UPI and Services Steering Committee today decided that, keeping in mind the festive season, Merchant Discount Rate (MDR) on select Person-to-Merchant (P2M) UPI transactions shall be implemented immediately post Diwali at a date to be notified separately," NPCI said. The payments body added that the revised implementation date will be communicated separately.

The move also triggered a sharp recovery in fintech stocks which rebounded from their intra-day lows following the announcement. Under the proposed MDR framework, select merchant categories including railways, telecom services, insurance and fuel purchases would attract a flat MDR of Rs 5 on UPI transactions exceeding Rs 2,000.

For payments made to large merchants above the same threshold, a charge of 0.4 per cent would be levied, subject to a maximum cap of Rs 300 per transaction.

NPCI has maintained that the revised MDR structure will have a limited impact on the broader UPI ecosystem.

According to estimates shared earlier, only around 4 per cent of merchant transactions are expected to fall under the ambit of the new framework, while over 95 per cent of person-to-merchant (P2M) UPI transactions will continue to remain exempt from MDR charges.

The framework also preserves the zero-MDR regime for small merchants operating under the person-to-person merchant (P2PM) model, ensuring that smaller businesses are not burdened with additional transaction costs.

The decision to defer the rollout comes amid heightened industry discussions around the reintroduction of MDR on certain categories of UPI transactions and its likely impact on merchant payments, fintech companies and the digital payments ecosystem.

New Delhi, Oct 13 : The Indian rupee appreciated by 77 paise against the US dollar in early trade on Tuesday supported by RBI measures aimed at reducing immediate dollar demand and curbing excessive positions in the foreign exchange market. The domestic currency opened at 95.17 -- up 0.64 paise -- then gained ground to touch 95.05 -- up 77 paise -- over its previous close.The measures including a dedicated dollar window for oil marketing companies through designated banks and higher costs for certain foreign exchange hedging transactions are expected to reduce dollar demand in spot market and curb speculative positions against rupee.

On Monday, the rupee appreciated 93 paise, logging its steepest single-day gain in more than six months, to close at 95.78 against the US dollar. On outlook for the rupee, experts expect the Indian currency to trade in 95.60-97.50 per dollar range by end-2026 with most projections clustering around 96-97 per dollar mark. Earlier in October, the Reserve Bank of India tightened rules governing forex derivatives trades to curtail speculative bets against rupee and asked banks to create 20 per cent reserve for dollar purchases of over $2 million.

In another set of measures announced Saturday on derivatives front, RBI said authorised dealers should not permit users to rebook any foreign exchange derivative contract involving INR, whether deliverable or non-deliverable, which has been cancelled.

Meanwhile, dollar index -- which gauges greenback's strength against basket of six currencies -- was trading lower by 0.15 per cent at 102.43.

Meanwhile, Brent crude -- global oil benchmark -- was trading lower by over 1 per cent at $105.47 per barrel.

Outbreak of dengue fever in villages.. People queuing up for hospitals!

- Fear of dengue fever across Manukota district.. Hospitals expecting festive rush
- Focus on mosquito prevention and environmental cleanliness.. Avoid self-medication!

Mahabubabad, District Telangana Essence : There is concern about people falling ill with dengue fever in rural areas of Mahabubabad district. Those suffering from symptoms like fever, headache, body aches, and lethargy are seeking treatment in hospitals. Just as temples are packed with devotees during festive days, the fact that patients are coming to hospitals in the district center is leading to a debate among the people about the seriousness of the situation. It seems that the number of people seeking treatment from RMPs and other rural doctors who provide local treatment in rural areas is also increasing.

What are the real reasons?

Factors such as changes in weather, stagnant rainwater, the growth of mosquitoes, and environmental pollution can contribute to the spread of certain diseases. In addition to viral fevers, mosquito-borne diseases such as dengue and malaria can also cause fevers. However, not every fever should be considered a toxic fever. The real cause can only be determined when medical tests are conducted based on the symptoms.

If a fever occurs, especially young children, the elderly, pregnant women, and those suffering from chronic diseases should consult a doctor immediately. If the fever does not subside, recurs again and again, or if there is severe fatigue, it is necessary to undergo medical tests.

What can be done to prevent fevers?

Mosquito prevention is the key: Ensure that there is no water accumulation around the house. Water tanks, coolers, flower pots, old tires, and coconut shells should be removed. Water storage containers should be secured with lids. It is advisable to use mosquito nets and follow mosquito prevention measures.

Hygiene is a priority: Do not allow garbage to accumulate around the house. Keep drains clean. Clean or boil drinking water and cool it before drinking. Keep food covered. Wash hands with soap. Seek immediate medical attention if symptoms appear: Consult a doctor immediately if you have a fever. Do not use antibiotics or other medicines without a doctor's prescription. It is dangerous to use one another's medicines or self-medicate. Take adequate fluids and rest.

Be alert if you have these symptoms!

If you experience symptoms such as severe stomach pain, persistent vomiting, difficulty breathing, bleeding from the nose or gums, loss of consciousness, or severe lethargy, seek emergency medical attention immediately. Symptoms such as lethargy and decreased urination in young children should also not be ignored.

Medical and sanitation departments should pay attention

People are demanding that the situation of fever in rural areas be monitored and medical camps be organized where necessary. It is crucial to undertake sanitation programs in villages, intensify mosquito control measures, make necessary tests available to fever victims, and create awareness among the public about the diseases. There is a need to identify areas where fever cases are being reported more frequently and take appropriate measures.

Fever, even if it seems like a minor problem, can become dangerous if ignored. Many health problems can be prevented with preventive measures, environmental cleanliness, and timely medical treatment. Along with public alertness, the relevant departments should also monitor the situation at the field level.

- District Horticulture and Sericulture Department Officer Jinugu Marian

Mahabubabad, District Telangana Essence October Keeping in mind the effect of El Nino and drought conditions, District Horticulture and Sericulture Department Officer Jinugu Marian suggested that farmers should focus on cultivating wetland crops during the Yasangi season. He said that crops that are in demand in the market should be cultivated by making good use of the water resources available under boreholes and wells and get continuous income.

Higher income through crop diversity

Crop rotation should be encouraged through Farmer Producer Organizations (FPOs) and Self-Help Groups. He said that the cultivation of vegetables, oil palm, orchards, flower gardens, mulberry, onion, oilseeds, pulses, small grains and other crops should be expanded in every mandal.

Similarly, he said that farmers have opportunities to earn more income by cultivating new crops like coconut, cocoa and avocado along with medicinal and aromatic oil crops. He suggested that plans should be made to cultivate income-generating crops with market demand in about 50 acres under boreholes and wells in every village. He said that crops should be selected according to the needs of consumers, market conditions and available water resources, and that crop rotation should be followed without relying on a single crop.

Priority for organic and natural farming

Farmers should follow organic and natural farming methods, set up vegetable sheds through farmer producer associations and self-help groups, and utilize the subsidies available for vegetable cultivation.

He said that farmers can cultivate vegetables that people consume daily on their farm ridges, around the farm, in the backyard, oil palm and orchards as intercrops. He said that by growing vegetables even in front of the house and on terraces, daily needs can be met and cultivation costs can be reduced.

Improved yields with modern cultivation methods

It was suggested that modern methods like raising seedlings in protrays, creating raised beds, mulching, drip irrigation, and fertigation should be adopted in vegetable cultivation.

It was said that comprehensive management methods such as using neem flour and castor flour to increase soil fertility, spraying neem oil as needed, creating yellow sheets, and using recommended fertilizers should be adopted.Farmers were advised to adopt modern methods like cultivating vegetables on canopies and cultivating tomatoes using trellis method to achieve better yields in less space and increase their income.

Nani's Mass Mania Continues

Already, the buzz was out that Nani and director Sujeeth are getting ready to shoot the first schedule of "Bloody Romeo" very soon. While working on the script of #OG2, Sujeeth is said to have worked on Bloody Romeo completely and kept the whole script and pre-production ready, such that once The Paradise is over, he wants Nani to jump into the scene. But here's what we are hearing about this. Earlier, there were reports here and there that the story of "Bloody Romeo" got slightly altered, but the latest talk is that Nani hasn't been affected by the commercial result of The Paradise. So the story of Bloody Romeo is about a Chef, who works at an international hotel in London and is also a gangster in hiding. The film will be slick and stylish, and there will be Baasha kinds of flashback in the movie, where it explains why Nani's character turns a chef from being a ruthless gangster. Well, that explains the fact that Nani wants to continue his 'mass' journey without getting affected by the results of his recent mass movies. But then, when a stylish director like Sujeeth presents him in an enchanting avatar with amazingly styled music, surely it's going to be something else on the silver screen.

Vishwambhara's Game Plan Unclear

Megastar Chiranjeevi's most delayed film in recent times is none other than "Vishwambhara", which is being carved out by director Vassishta of Bimbisara fame. The film missed the release deadline by two years already, and it has recently come out that the OTT platform that bought the rights has laid down a condition that they won't allow the release to be too late. That brought the film into a Sankranthi release discussion already. The latest discussion in Film Circles is about how the movie is going to plan its promotional blitzkrieg. At this juncture, it is coming out that the makers are actually considering releasing a new promo that will erase the previous negativity surrounding the film's mediocre visual effects quality at that time. Fans are feeling that Vishwambhara should get into the game from Dasara itself, and should release a special promo that day. Whether UV Creations is ready with this plan or not is something to be seen. However, regarding the release date, earlier it has come out that only Chiranjeevi's other upcoming film Kaaka, being directed by KS Bobby, will be the only film to hit theatres on Sankranthi eve, and that's another story. So Vishwambhara should start both promotions and then lock the release date, so that fans will also get excited. Anyway, it's going to be a two-film treat for mega fans from the matinee idol in 2027.

Tamannaah's 'Dirty Picture': What's the Buzz?

The first instalment of "The Dirty Picture" is all about the unofficial life and times of South sex siren Silk Smitha, who was an icon in the 80s and literally shook the silver screen. Back then, that film was a bit controversial, especially for the portrayal of some South stars, albeit indirectly, but then Vidya Balan in the titular role has stunned everyone.

Now comes the turn of milky beauty Tamannaah Bhatia.

Tamannaah, who was once ruled out from Tollywood, has bounced back with Baahubali and then made it big in Bollywood with item songs.

Though she hasn't seen big box-office successes, she definitely became a sensation on OTT and through other work in the film industry. Now that she's said to be doing the Dirty Picture 2, many are wondering whose biopic it is and what the film is all about.

Back then, Vidya Balan's seductive portrayal has become the talk of the town, and if Tamannaah is also getting ready, a similar dose for the Indian audience is something to be seen. That said, currently the heroine is busy doing a couple of web series for the OTT platforms and doing a couple of films here and there in all the tinsel towns.
