Uttam blames KLIS redesign for Telangana drought

Hyderabad, Oct 24: Irrigation and Civil Supplies Minister Capt. N. Uttam Kumar Reddy on Saturday launched a sharp critique against the previous BRS administration, accusing it of committing a "historic blunder" by scrapping the original Pranahita-Chevella project in favor of the Kaleshwaram Lift Irrigation Scheme (KLIS).

Addressing media personnel at the Secretariat, the Minister announced a time-bound roadmap to rehabilitate the Medigadda, Annaram, and Sundilla barrages, outlining technical assessments, design approvals, and execution milestones. Uttam Kumar Reddy asserted that Telangana would have been far better equipped to withstand the prevailing El Niño-induced drought had the original Pranahita-Chevella design been retained. He alleged that the decision to deviate from the initial plans was driven by motives other than the welfare of local farmers.

Originally estimated at around ₹38,000 crore, the project's redesign inflicted a severe financial burden on the state without delivering promised irrigation benefits, the Minister stated.

The Minister added that sticking to the original design would have fortified North Telangana's water infrastructure, minimised vulnerability to erratic rainfall, and cushioned farmers against recurring drought cycles.

(Further condemning the previous government for burdening Telangana with unsustainable debt while leaving critical infrastructure incomplete, Uttam Kumar Reddy assured that the current government is consulting top national and international experts to oversee the barrage restorations. He urged that Telangana's irrigation legacy be evaluated on ground facts rather than political rhetoric. The press conference was attended by Minister Vivek Venkata swamy, tunnel engineering expert Col. Parikshit Mehra who is associated with the rehabilitation project Engineer-in-Chief (General) Ramesh Babu, and several elected representatives.

Uttam Kumar Reddy on Saturday invited defence and aerospace companies from India and abroad to invest, innovate and expand their manufacturing operations in Telangana, highlighting Hyderabad's established ecosystem of global aerospace majors, defence public sector undertakings, research institutions and specialised manufacturing units.

Welcoming the gathering, Uttam Kumar Reddy said Raksha Expo was not merely an exhibition but an invitation to industry leaders to explore Telangana as a destination for investment, advanced manufacturing and technological innovation. Highlighting Hyderabad's industrial strengths, he cited the presence of global companies such as Boeing, Lockheed Martin, Airbus and Safran, alongside Indian firms such as Tata Advanced Systems and Bharat Dynamics Limited (BDL), as well as numerous specialised component manufacturers.

BRS warns of protest at CM's residence over Hyderabad water crisis

The BRS leaders alleged that the Congress government was failing to utilise the available water by not operating the pumps at Kannepalli, worsening the city's water concerns. According to estimates cited by the delegation, more than 750 TMC of Godavari water had flowed into the sea since June. The leaders argued that lifting even around 250 TMC could have helped replenish reservoirs and tanks, improve groundwater levels and meet Hyderabad's drinking water requirements.

Addressing a press conference at Kannepalli after the visit, MLA KP Vivekanand Goud said BRS working president KT Rama Rao (KTR) had visited the site in July, highlighted the wastage of water and cautioned the government about the possible impact of El Niño and the impending water crisis.

"Instead of addressing these concerns, Revanth Reddy threatened to give a belt treatment to the engineers who suggested lifting water. Now, it is the people who will give a belt treatment to Revanth," he said. Vivekanand Goud alleged that the Chief Minister had realised the gravity of the situation only after nearly 800 TMC of water had reportedly flowed into the sea.

He claimed that just 10 TMC of water would be sufficient to meet. Hyderabad's drinking water needs for a year and urged the government to immediately resume pumping at Kannepalli to ease the situation. MLA Marri Rajashekar Reddy said residents in his constituency and several other parts of Hyderabad were complaining of irregular water supply and low pressure. MLA D. Sudheer Reddy criticised the government over its handling of issues concerning the Medigadda barrage, including the suspected blast targeting its piers.

He also expressed concern over the city's growing dependence on water tankers, stating that around 7,000 tanker bookings were being made in October. He said the situation was reminiscent of peak summer and reflected the seriousness of Hyderabad's water shortage.

Former minister Errabelli Dayakar Rao accused Revanth Reddy of deliberately undermining the Kaleshwaram project and failing to address the emerging water crisis despite the availability of resources.

Talasani accuses govt of poor crisis planning amid El Niño warnings

Hyderabad, Oct 24: Former Telangana Minister and BRS leader Talasani Srinivas Yadav on Saturday launched a sharp critique against the ruling Congress administration, alleging a failure to anticipate and prepare for challenges arising from El Niño. Addressing the media, Srinivas Yadav accused Chief Minister A. Revanth Reddy of lacking political foresight and neglecting critical governance issues—such as seasonal weather disruptions—in favor of targeting opposition figures. "BRS president K. Chandrashekhar Rao managed state crises through proactive, long-term planning," Srinivas Yadav said, contrasting the current administration with the previous government. "KCR evaluated administrative needs up to a year in advance—stocking urea in bulk during shortages to protect farmers."

Srinivas Yadav claimed the state government failed to act despite clear warnings from meteorologists and agricultural experts regarding El Niño's prospective impact. He questioned the Chief Minister's assertion that electricity was unavailable on the open market, noting that a neighboring state had successfully procured emergency power at ₹15 per unit.

Defending the BRS government's historical power procurement record, the former minister noted that the KCR administration purchased power at a baseline rate of ₹3.90 per unit, maintaining uninterrupted power and water supply even during the height of the Covid-19 pandemic—a response he noted received national recognition.

KTR urges youth to embrace AI as opportunity, not threat the India headquarters of RandomTrees, a company operating in the fields of data, AI and innovation, in Hyderabad. Speaking on the occasion, he highlighted the importance of strengthening Telangana's technology ecosystem, attracting investments and preparing young people for future employment opportunities. The BRS working president observed that every technological revolution initially creates apprehensions but eventually opens new avenues for growth. Recalling the resistance to the introduction of computers in the banking sector, he said adapting to change was essential for progress. Portraying AI as a 'monster' would only create unnecessary fear among people, he added.

Emphasising the role of the private sector in employment generation, KTR said governments should focus on creating a business-friendly environment rather than attempting to provide jobs directly to everyone. Reliable power and water supply, quality infrastructure, efficient transport and ease of doing business were essential to attract investments, he said.

KTR said the previous BRS government had taken several initiatives to position Hyderabad as a leading global IT destination and attract international companies and Global Capability Centres (GCCs). He expressed confidence that the city could emerge as a major hub for AI research, data science and technological innovation. KTR called for coordination among governments, industries and educational institutions to equip youth with industry-relevant skills and ensure the benefits of technology reach all sections of society.

Regarding the demand to reduce the 60 per cent cut-off marks for the appointment of Additional Public Prosecutors (PPs), he said he would discuss the issue with Congress Legal Cell national president and Rajya Sabha MP Abhishek Manu Singhvi. He also stressed the need to provide appropriate cut-off marks and adequate opportunities for SC, ST, BC and OBC candidates.

'Anti-suicide ceiling fans' to save students' lives!

- Installation of spring-loaded fans in hostels.. Innovative effort to prevent suicides is commendable

- Lots of lives are lost for small reasons.. All educational institutions should follow this policy!

- A new idea to save students' lives.. Gujarat University's exemplary decision!

Mullangi Mohan Reddy Telangana Essence Mahabubabad District October 24: In today's society, incidents of students and young men and women committing suicide due to minor problems are worrying. While some take their lives in a moment of panic because their parents did not buy them a vehicle, did not give them a cell phone, or did not take them to the movies.. Others commit suicide due to reasons such as love affairs, adults not agreeing to love marriages, and failure in love. Incidents of students losing their lives by hanging themselves in hostels are disturbing parents and management of educational institutions. In this context, the innovative step taken by Veer Narmad South Gujarat University (VNSGU) in Gujarat to prevent student suicides is now attracting everyone's attention.

354 anti-suicide fans in hostel rooms

Prioritizing the safety of students, VNSGU has installed 354 spring-loaded anti-suicide fans in its hostel rooms. It is reported that about Rs. 1,500 was spent on installing each fan. These devices, which work differently from ordinary fans, are designed to prevent loss of life in dangerous situations.

When a weight of more than 10 kg falls on the fan, the spring system in it is released and the fan hangs down. At the same time, this system works so that the power supply is stopped. This will reduce the risk of suicide in the event of an attempt to hang oneself.

Other educational institutions should also follow suit

Such preventive measures are essential to prevent student suicides. In addition to taking special measures for the safety of students in hostels, the management should identify students who are under mental stress and provide them with counseling. An environment should be created where students can talk to each other in a friendly manner on issues such as exam stress, love affairs, family problems, and financial difficulties.

They should be encouraged to believe that there is a solution to any problem.

Many netizens are of the opinion that this innovative initiative taken by Gujarat University is commendable and that government and private colleges, universities, and hostels across the country should consider and implement such safety measures. However, anti-suicide fans alone cannot completely prevent suicides. Along with physical safety, attention to mental health, timely help, and support from family members and teachers are also crucial.

Life is precious.. There is a solution to any problem!

A decision taken in a hurry can leave a family in a state of immense sorrow. It is the responsibility of everyone in society to build self-confidence in students, encourage them to face problems bravely, and provide expert help when needed. Let us hope that this effort by Gujarat University, aimed at saving the lives of students, will serve as an inspiration to other educational institutions.

Two children orphaned.. Mother Maheshwari is in mourning!

Suicide is not a solution to any problem.. One should face difficulties bravely

Mullangi Mohan ReddyMahabubabad District, Correspondent Telangana Essence October 24: A tragedy has taken place in Seethampet village of Garla mandal of Mahabubabad district. The discovery of the body of Maheshwari (21) from the village in an agricultural well has filled the locality with deep sorrow. Maheshwari, who married Shekhar from the same village four years ago, has a nine-month-old daughter, Sharanya, and a two-year-old son, Devans.

When Maheshwari left home on Friday morning and did not return, her family members searched for her and her body was found in an agricultural well in the evening. The reasons for her death are not yet known. The police have registered a case and are investigating on the complaint of the deceased's mother.

Tears cannot stop when thinking about the future of the children!

A nine-month-old baby who has not fully opened his eyes and seen the world.. A two-year-old who should have grown up in his mother's lap.. A situation where a mother is separated from her love and cries is heartbreaking. No matter what problems arise in the family, no matter how much pain is in his heart, decisions made in a moment can plunge lives into tragedy. Especially parents with young children should think about the impact their decisions will have on the future of their children.

Suicide is not a solution to problems.. Face them bravely!

When there are disagreements between husband and wife, family disputes, financial difficulties or other personal problems, one should not despair and seek solutions. Instead of keeping the pain in one's heart, one should share it with trusted family members and friends. If necessary, seek counseling or professional help. Life is worth living no matter what difficulties one faces. The problem faced today may be solved tomorrow. But suicide not only affects the life that cannot be recovered, but also the future of those who depend on us. That is why one should avoid making decisions that take one's life in a moment.

Telangana Essence News Daily Appeal

Everyone should pay attention to mental health so that such tragic incidents do not happen to another family. Instead of blaming those who are suffering, they should listen to them and stand by them. Those who have suicidal thoughts should not be alone and immediately contact a trusted person and get help.

The police should conduct a full-scale investigation into Maheshwari's death and bring the facts to light. The relevant authorities and family members should pay special attention to the welfare and future of her two children.

Life is only one.. Problems are not permanent. Face difficulties.. Stay away from suicide.. Stand by the family that is waiting for you.

KCR wasted public money in the name of Kaleshwaram

B. Rama Rao, District Correspondent, Jayashankar Bhupalapally. Telangana Essence, October 24: Peddapalli MP Gaddam Vamsi Krishna has strongly criticized the then Chief Minister KCR for campaigning extensively, saying that the Kaleshwaram project was a boon for Telangana, but today the same project has become a financial burden on the state.

He alleged that the project, which initially started with an estimated cost of about Rs. 80 thousand crores, was increased to Rs. 1.5 lakh crores in the name of redesigns. Now, he said, another burden of Rs. 25 thousand crores will fall on the state to restore the dilapidated structures in the project and run it fully.

He said that the project will cost about Rs. 10 thousand crores annually for electricity, and about 8,500 megawatts of electricity will be required. On the other hand, he said that the interest and principal payments on the loans are becoming a burden of about Rs. 14 thousand crores. He criticized BRS Working President KTR for misleading the people by saying that if two or three barrages are sagging, it is enough to invest Rs. 500 or Rs. 1,000 crores.

MP Vamsi Krishna alleged that lakhs of crores of public money have been wasted in the name of Kaleshwaram. He said that this project has been turned into a burden with huge debts and maintenance costs, not a permanent asset for the state. He demanded that the BRS government should be accountable to the people of the state and bring full transparency on the expenses, design changes and construction failures incurred on the Kaleshwaram project.

Don't Call It Basheerbagh, Call It Sri Ram Chowk: Akula Srivani

Saroornagar BJP Former Corporator Calls for Popularising the Name Sri Ram Chowk

Telangana Essence Reporter Avvari Venkateswara Sarma, LB Nagar, Hyderabad, October 24: Saroornagar BJP former corporator Akula Srivani has called upon Hindus to popularise the name "Sri Ram Chowk" in place of Basheerbagh and bring it into common usage. "Who is Basheer, and what service has he rendered to society? From today, let us call this place Sri Ram Chowk and take the initiative to popularise the name," Srivani said.

She questioned why the BRS, Congress and so-called secular parties objected to using the name of Lord Sri Ram. "Those who worry about hurting the sentiments of others do not seem to care about the religious sentiments of Hindus. Are our beliefs so insignificant?" she asked.

Srivani appealed to people to popularise the name Sri Ram Chowk and strongly voice their demand to rename Hyderabad as Bhagyanagaram.

She further stated that she would submit a representation to the concerned authorities seeking the installation of a tent over the idol of Lord Sri Ram at Sri Ram Chowk and official recognition of the name, ensuring its permanent use. "What objection could anyone have to the presence of Lord Sri Ram's idol there? People can offer prayers to Lord Ram while passing by, and it will bring them peace and well-being," she said. Srivani urged everyone to come forward and stand united, stating that their collective strength and unity would help fulfil their aspirations.

Referring to the removal of the idol of Lord Sri Ram from the Basheerbagh area, Srivani questioned who had been inconvenienced by its presence and whose life had been affected by it. She said the idol had given courage and peace of mind to many devotees who offered prayers while passing through the area. "Why was the idol of Lord Ram removed? Are you so afraid that one section of society might object? Will you set aside our religious beliefs because of that fear? Is this neglect of our sentiments because you consider us merely a vote bank?" she asked.

"Is it wrong for us to want an idol of our deity in our own country and locality, and to name that area Sri Ram Chowk? Is this the democracy and people-friendly governance that you speak of?" she questioned. "For us, Lord Ram is not merely an idol. He is the deity of our homes, a source of courage during difficult times and a belief passed down through generations. Please do not measure this deep emotional and spiritual bond in terms of electoral calculations," Akula Srivani said.

Allu Arjun's Rajini Praise Sparks Mega vs Bunny Fan War!

Allu Arjun has once again become huge topic of discussion on social media. This time reason is his tweet about Rajinikanth and Jailer 2. What appears to be praise for the Superstar has started another online fight between Mega fans and Allu Arjun fans. The controversy started after Allu Arjun shared a tweet praising Rajinikanth. He wrote in Telugu, "Chokka nalagakunda 500 CR+ kottadam okka Rajini garike saadhyam!" The statement means that only Rajinikanth can achieve more than Rs. 500 crore at the box office without even getting his shirt dirty. The tweet was meant to appreciate Rajinikanth's style and screen presence. However, it did not receive the response that many might have expected.

Instead, it became a reason for arguments among fans. For some time, fans have been comparing Chiranjeevi and Rajinikanth, especially after the release of Jailer 2.

Discussions about their films, box office collections and stardom have become common on social media. In this situation, Allu Arjun's tweet praising Rajinikanth has attracted more attention. Some fans feel that the statement indirectly compares Rajinikanth with Chiranjeevi.This has given fans another reason to argue online. However, Allu Arjun did not directly mention Chiranjeevi in his tweet. Therefore, it would be wrong to say that he intentionally targeted the Megastar. The main question now is whether Allu Arjun's tweet was simply praise for Rajinikanth or whether it could be understood as a comment on other senior heroes. A simple appreciation post can quickly turn into a controversy. Another question being discussed is whether Allu Arjun needed to post such a statement at this time. His social media team could have considered the ongoing comparisons before sharing the message.

Can Anyone Dare to Make a Film Like Dorothy?

Some films are easy to make, while others need a lot of courage to bring to the screen. Dorothy belongs to the second category. The film explores an unusual subject that many filmmakers may hesitate to choose. But director Karthik Subbaraj has taken the risk of presenting this different story to audiences. Not every filmmaker is ready to handle a subject like Dorothy. It needs courage to select a story that may not please everyone. The film moves away from regular commercial cinema and tries to show something different. Instead of depending only on entertainment, it makes viewers think about society, relationships and the way people judge others.

The film explores how social rules and personal beliefs can affect people's lives. Its bold concept is one of the main reasons why it stands apart from regular movies. Choosing a bold subject alone is not enough to make a film successful. The director must also present it in an interesting and convincing way.

This is where execution becomes very important. Fortunately, Dorothy brings together a different concept and a raw storytelling style.

The film does not depend on the usual commercial formula. Its grounded presentation helps the story create an impact. The music by Ilaiyaraaja also adds emotional depth to several moments. But a film with an unusual concept may not connect with every viewer. Some audiences may appreciate the director's courage, while others may find the subject uncomfortable. Such mixed reactions are understandable because the film does not try to please everyone.

Why Is Mahesh Babu Holding Back His Next Film?

Mahesh Babu is one of the biggest stars in Telugu cinema. However, there is an interesting situation in his career right now. While many Tollywood stars have already announced their upcoming projects, Mahesh Babu has not yet confirmed his next director after his film with SS Rajamouli. This has raised questions among fans. Is there a special reason behind his decision. Many leading Telugu actors are busy with their upcoming films. Jr NTR has projects lined up with different directors, while Allu Arjun is also connected with multiple upcoming projects.

Ram Charan is working on his film commitments, and Prabhas has several projects in the pipeline.

These stars are planning their careers with multiple films and different directors.

However, Mahesh Babu appears to be taking a different approach. At present, his main focus is on the much-awaited film with SS Rajamouli's Varanasi. One possible reason could be his plan to build a stronger Pan-India market. Mahesh Babu enjoys a huge fan following in Telugu states. His films also receive attention from audiences across India. However he has not yet achieved the same level of nationwide box-office reach as some other Telugu stars.

Rajamouli is known for presenting Indian stories on a grand scale and taking his films to audiences worldwide. His association with Mahesh Babu has already created huge expectations. If Varanasi becomes a major success, Mahesh Babu could gain a wider audience across different languages. This may influence his choice of directors and stories for future projects. However, there is no confirmed information suggesting that remuneration is the reason for his current decision. He may also be waiting for the right script and director instead of rushing into another project. Whatever the reason is Mahesh Babu is the only hero who haven't locked his lineup.
